THE arguments contained in the letter of Sir W. Watson, "published in another column, are of the weakest description. So far as he dispenses with our contemporary it is concerned we have nothing to do. His complaint that his countrymen are the victims of class legislation is absurd. It is impossible, under existing conditions, to do without special legislation for the Chinese. If and if ever it may feel aggrieved that they have to comply with certain regulations from which foreigners are exempt. But the mass of the Chinese are perfectly content, as they ought to be, with the great privileges they enjoy under British rule. They have evidently never felt the night-pass system hardship, and they ought to be well aware that it is not imposed upon them simply because they are Chinese. If it were a visibility inflicted upon them as a mark of degradation they would then have a right to murmur; but it is not. Hongkong has unfortunately, always been the resort of the lowest class of Chinese, including among them a very large percentage of the rascals of Kwangtung. Considering that the British and foreign element in the population is so insignificant, and that the criminal classes among the natives are daring and desperate, it has been found necessary to impose some restrictions upon their movements after dark. This has been done, as much in the interest of the respectable natives as in that of foreigners, and its practice has ensured an amount of security to their lives and property which more than com-pensates for the little annoyance which the night-pass system causes them. "Singapore" grumbles because Indians, Ica-rians, and other foreigners are exempt from the regulation. But surely he does not require to be told that the Indians are British subjects upon whom the Government has a hold it cannot acquire over the Chinese. Moreover, these people are rarely guilty of even petty crimes, and hardly ever of serious robberies or outrages. The Indian population is quite as law-abiding as the European, and is equal need of protection against the swarms of Chinese thieves who are constantly flocking over here from the mainland. If the Chinese went to England they would, of course, be placed on an equality with other foreigners; here the case is different, and they must submit to the trifling restrictions which circumstances render necessary. After all, what have they complain of? Are they treated with more severity than they would be in their own misruled land? Assuredly not. Here they obtain equal justice, ample protection to life and property, freedom from arrest, and immunities for trading.

They would not enjoy in China. If they did not secure great advantages by living here they would not come. They do not come here for the benefit of Europeans; they come here to obtain the liberty denied them in their own country, and to amass money. The vast majority are, we believe, thoroughly contented, and desire no change; "Singapore" and a few who think him chaff, however, say that the Editor wrote the above on behalf of the natives of Hongkong only as representing the interests of the Chinese. But surely it cannot be denied that the sentiments of so many Chinese as those expressed by the Mail goes further and claims to represent the interests of all the Chinese. So far as the Editor's statement that the "natives are the men of the night" goes, it is true, but it is not true that they are represented by the natives of Hongkong only as representing the interests of the Chinese. I for one, entertain a different opinion. I am sure that those emigrants are class legislation.

I notice several letters have appeared in the Mail advertising the conduct of our new Government towards the Chinese. I am inclined to give a more detailed account of what they say, as they are written by persons who are not Chinese, and are not so much as to the point. The Editor's statement
